JULY 2021 | BROOKLYN | CONDOS & CO-OPS

July 2021: Climbing Prices Tempered Buyers but Contract Activity Still Doubled Last Year's Pace.

The number of contracts signed in July exceeded 500 for the fifth consecutive month and both condo and co-op activity contributed to the strong figure. The month-over-month dip is not surprising given its summer, although rising prices overall likely moderated activity. All price ranges had increased activity, with contracts over $3M and $1.5M to $2M having the largest gains. Contract activity at large-scale new developments in Brooklyn Heights, Dumbo, and Downtown drove the 158% annual sales gain.

July 2021: Inventory Accumulated From A Dip in Sales. Average Price per Square Foot Continued to Climb.

Active listings increased slightly from June yet the annual gain of 26% was the smallest seen in six months. Prices increased across-the-board due to strong sales activity in prime neighborhoods; the co-op figure reached its highest point in ten months while condo average price per square foot hit its second highest in eighteen months. While many well-priced desirable apartments sold for over ask, some condo buyers were able to negotiate a small amount off the last asking price.
